No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB 5 1864

REMOVAL.

The Office of the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been removed to Carter's new brick block, corner of Front and Washington streets, up stairs. Entrance on Washington street, first door from front.

The Kind of Work to be Done.

The friends of the Administration in Oregon should not forget that the conflict which is rapidly coming on between them and its opponents is not likely to be a trifling affair, for which no active preparation is necessary. These last are, and for months have been at work in every county, early and late, using every means, fair and foul, to gain their ends and to unite every shade of hostility to the Government in schemes to secure success. Minor questions among them are to be laid aside, and their whole united strength will be exerted to accomplish the defeat of the Union party. With them, possibly, will be found some of those who two years ago professed to be patriotic and then voted according to their professions; we trust their return to the mire of Democracy will be no loss, and we are sure that if proper exertions are made, more than enough to fill their places can be recruited from the ranks of those who at that time acted with our opponents. An earnest and untiring foe demands anxious vigilance on our part in self defence. The whole attention of the Union party should not be given to discussions and projects for the benefit of individuals, lest while it is exhausting its strength in regard to men, it may lose the power to secure their election. We fear that there is danger of this,—that there is an excess of confidence, which the result may prove to be unwarrantable. We have no doubt whatever that there is full ability on the part of the Union men of Oregon to meet and to conquer the opposition to the Administration, by a decisive majority. But to do this, they must stand shoulder to shoulder—throw all their energies into the contest—begin now the work that leads to victory, and labor incessantly till the hour of loyal triumph. Every man must do his duty for the cause, and not for his favorite candidate alone, or we shall find ourselves quarreling in vain about men, while principles will be neglected and perhaps defeated.

Small Business.

The reported removal of Mr. Parker, the Postmaster at San Francisco, is now confirmed, as the appointment of his successor has been approved by the Senate. This action is stated to be simply political revenge, as no suggestion of want of fitness, integrity or fidelity has been made against Mr. Parker; he was one of the early Republicans in California, and has been true and unwavering in his support of the Government. But all this was not enough to save him, as he had the audacity to favor the election of some other man to the United States Senate, than Mr. Conness, and so as a punishment for his preference, the new Senator demands his removal, and we regret to know that the Administration has allowed it. We suppose that some politicians may consider this action fair and justifiable—that as Administrations are expected to put their political friends in office, members of Congress are also to be permitted to fill positions only with those who personally favor their pretensions, or in other words that cliques may dispose of party patronage, and may remove faithful officers of the same party, who do not belong to the little circle which makes men Senators and Representatives. When the leaders of the Democratic party so acted, there was a loud cry against the outrage—we do not believe the practice is any more commendable or tolerable in those who have brought some of their old party tactics into the Union ranks, and are likely we fear to load it with odium, which, though it may not destroy its strength, will tend to weaken popular confidence, and to fill honorable men with disgust. Mr. Parker had a right to prefer the election of Phelps or Sargent. For so doing, he ought not to have been deprived of his office, unless the successful Senator has such a mortgage upon all offices in his State that none can be filled except by his slavish dependants and understrappers. Similar things have been attempted in regard to our own State: fitness has been below devotion to the personal fortunes of those, who by bargains and political strategy have unworthily obtained Congressional positions. By this means good men have been removed, while those in all respects inferior, have been rewarded for their sale of themselves in the political market. It is shameful that such things should be; they are a just reproach to any party which encourages or tolerates them, and cannot fail to do harm, even if they do not accomplish its early defeat, for no party can live and prosper, which for the sake of gratifying the ambition or the revenge of one man, fails to do justice to others who are equally faithful, though perhaps not so successful because they will not employ base means to become so. A truly great man would scorn to stoop so low as to punish one of his own party for frankly expressing his wishes: such petty revenge is the only capital of the venal demagogue, who thinks offices are the coin with which he can buy promotion.

TROUBLE AMONG THE SAILORS.—The Navy Department have been greatly embarrassed in its operations during the last year for want of seamen, on board the vastly increased number of vessels, which it has put into service. As all enlistments are voluntary, there has been no way to procure the men who were needed, and recently the difficulty has become much greater. The causes of this reluctance were explained at a late meeting of the sailors in New York, where Richard Welsh, one of their numbers made a speech, in which he said:

We want to show the public what the newspapers won't tell them, that seamen have been compelled to stay out of the navy by the arbitrary course of the present Secretary. No nation in the world has ever dreamed of abolishing the small ration of grog which was given to United States seamen as it is given to seamen of all other countries, to warm them after chilly work in wet and stormy weather at sea and to stimulate them during the dull sameness of harbor life. One of our chief objects also is to complain to the world that the prize money which we are reported to have received never reached us at all, or if it does not reach us twenty five per cent less than what we ought to get. My friends, I was in the Bienville and Mercedita many months, I might say years ago; we captured in both vessels many prizes. I have never got a cent of money yet, although the newspapers have reported from time to time, that the cash was ready to be handed down; and the papers lately had a considerable article headed "How Jack Tar Makes Money," where the prize-money, we never got, was put in big figures. I wrote to the Navy Department three or four times and to the Prize Department, but I never got any satisfaction; I was told that when the list would be all right I would get the money. On coming from Washington, however, I met a shipmate, who was a sharer in a large prize captured many months since I was at sea. He got his money. I asked him how. He said he was told to go to the prize bankers and give them 25 per cent., and they should hand the cash down—which they did. He told me that the Navy Department winked at this practice, and did not make any exertions to make the money to be handed out at once to the proper claimants. Now we have the Secretary of the Navy in our hands. There are nearly a hundred vessels nearly ready for sea, which cannot go because no hands can be got for them. Admiral Farragut is obliged to stay in town because he cannot get a full crew for his vessel. The Brooklyn also is short-handed, and full five propellers are ready to go out of the yard if they had the men. But let us not enlist, let us take a short run to Liverpool or Havre or Bremen or London or elsewhere, even to Shanghae, if we cannot better ourselves. But do not enter the navy until we get our grog and our prize money.

The following resolutions were passed without a dissenting voice:

Resolved, That all American seamen are invited to keep out of the navy until some rule is adopted which will enable a man to get his own prize money when the list is ready and when he applies for it.

Resolved, That the abolition of grog in the navy, was uncalled for, and is very bad, that it never was attempted in any other navy in the world; that two gills of whisky in the day is not enough to intoxicate anybody; and that those who could do without grog—landsmen, marines and boys—never drank it at all.

Resolved, That we make short or long trips in merchant vessels as the case may answer us, until the navy is governed in a way that will meet our views, and that we speak to every sailor we know, and request him to abide by the decisions arrived at by us, and that the record of this meeting be published in the leading newspapers.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to effect some organization of the naval sailors now sojourning in New York, and that each man who is earning money devote a small part of his income to forward the said organization.

JOHN BRIGHT ON THE STRENGTH OF OUR GOVERNMENT.—John Bright closed his recent speech at Rochdale with the following tribute:

"Will anybody deny that the Government at Washington, as regards its own people, is the strongest Government in the world at this hour? (Cheers.) And for this simple reason, because it is based on the will and the good will of an instructed people. (Cheers.) Look at its power! I am not now discussing why it is, or the cause which is developing this power, but power is the thing which men regard in these old countries, and which they ascribe mainly to European institutions; but look at the power which the United States have developed! They have brought more men into the field; they have built ships for their navy; they have shown greater resources than any nation in Europe at this moment is capable of. Look at the order which has prevailed at their elections, at which, as you see by the papers, 50,000, or 100,000, or 250,000 persons voted in a given State, with less disorder than you have seen lately in three of the smallest boroughs in England—Barnstaple, Windsor, and Andover. (Laughter and cheers.) Look at their industry. Notwithstanding this terrific struggle, their agriculture, their manufactures, and commerce proceed with an uninterrupted success. They are ruled by a President chosen, it is true, not from some worn-out Royal or noble blood, but from the people, and the one whose truthfulness and spotless honor have claimed him universal praise; and now the country that has been vilified through half the organs of the press in England during the last three years, and was pointed out, too, as an example to be shunned by many of your statesmen, that country, now in mortal strife, affords a haven and a home for multitudes flying from the burdens and the neglect of the old Governments of Europe—(cheers)—and when this mortal strife is over—when peace is restored, when slavery is destroyed, when the Union is cemented afresh, for I would say in the language of one of our own poets addressing his country,

"The grave's not dug where traitor hands shall lay
In fearful haste thy murdered corse away—

(loud cheers), then Europe and England may learn that an instructed democracy is the surest foundation of Government, and that education and freedom are the only sources of true greatness and true happiness among any people. (Immense cheering.)

AS TO THE GOVERNMENT INTENTION OF TAXING THE MINES.—The Sacramento Bee of 20th January says: One of our Congressional delegation writes to a friend here, who questioned him concerning the Government's intent to tax the mines, and says:

I do not know, with certainty, what the plan of Gen. Beale is, but I shall see it in a few days, as it will be printed at length with the report of Commissioner Edwards. We hear, now and then, an expression in favor of raising revenue from the mines by taxation, but these thoughts spring from a general desire to get funds to meet the very extraordinary expenses of the Government imposed by the war, and not from any purpose or wish to make a specialty of the mines in taxation. Miners now pay their income tax the same as people engaged in any other occupation, and this doubtless they are willing to do, but no more. To put mining on a more unfavorable basis than any other productive industry, would it seems to me be unjust, and, as a Government measure, decidedly impolitic, for its tendency would be to curtail a product more needed now than any other. But I have seen no specific plan for taxing the precious metal mines.

A DESERTER'S CONFESSIONS.—A Chattanooga correspondent of the Philadelphia Press writes to that paper as follows:

"What are your people fighting for? I inquired of one of twelve rebel deserters who came into our lines to-day. I could never get to know exactly, said he, but some of our officers tell us we are fighting for liberty. Beautiful sentiment, thought I, but what a fatal delusion! Pretty theory, and attractive. Pray tell me, said I, how much of this liberty you have secured for yourself personally, and what is the nature of it? Liberty, said he, to enter the army or be shot in my own house, liberty to leave my family to starve for the necessaries of life, liberty to fight against my own countrymen and peril my life to gratify a few slaveholders who are leading us to destruction. I am sick of it, said he, and have deserted, and thousands more would do so if opportunity offered. And the eleven who were with him said Amen!"

AN INTERESTING COURT INTERVIEW.—A humorous writer in the Chicago Post describes how he got out of a bad scrape in the Police Court:

"The next morning the Judge of the Police Court sent for me. I went down, and he received me cordially. Said he had heard of the wonderful things I had accomplished at Bryan Hall, and was proud of me. I was a promising young man and all that. Then he offered me a toast—'Guilty or not guilty?' I responded in a brief but eloquent speech, setting forth the importance of the occasion that had brought us together. After the usual ceremonies, I loaned him fifty dollars."

Scenes After the Battle.

Among all the sketches that we have seen from the fields of battle, we have read none with more tender interest than the record of the labor of two women in the service of the Sanitary Commission, at Gettysburg. It is published in tract form by Randolph, under the title of What I did at Gettysburg. We make some extracts:

For the [illegible] sheltering and feeding of all these [illegible] could make no provision [illegible] if too late for the cars, [illegible] in preparation for the [illegible] when the cars are [illegible] Lodge and [illegible] comfortable supplies for which the wounded [illegible] must [illegible] night and day while waiting for the next train.

We had an average [illegible] of [illegible] night [illegible] hundred [illegible] thirty [illegible] the telegraph [illegible] eat since [illegible] sixteen [illegible] hundred kept [illegible] day and twelve hundred kept all night [illegible] their supper and breakfast. [illegible] sure regret that these [illegible] sick and in prison were helped and cared for through your supplies, though certainly they were [illegible] barrels and [illegible]. The clothing we reserved for our own men [illegible] but in feeding them we could make no distinction. It was [illegible] giving place to the kindest feeling for wounded men.

Among our wounded soldiers one night an elderly [illegible] sitting and talking about it. We did what we could for him, and pleased him greatly with a present of a red flannel shirt, drawers [illegible] dressing gown, all of which he needed, and in which he dressed himself up and then wrote a [illegible] his wife [illegible] little black and white gingham [illegible] gave it to one of the gentlemen to mail for him. The next morning he was sent on with the company from the Lodge, and that evening two tired women came into our camp, his wife and sister, who [illegible] from their home to meet him, arriving just too late. Fortunately we had the queer little gingham book to identify him by, and when some one said, "It is the man, you know, who screamed so," the poor wife was certain about him.

He had been crazy before the war, and not for two years [illegible]. He had been fretting for home since he was hurt, and when the Doctor told him there was no chance of being sent there, he lost heart and wrote to his wife to come and take him away. It seemed dreadful [illegible] for two lone women, who had never been out of their own little town, to go [illegible] among so many sent in so many different directions, but we helped them as we could, and started them on their journey the next morning, back on their track to [illegible] their own [illegible] York [illegible]. A week after Mrs —— had letter full of gratitude [illegible] that her husband was found and secured for home.

That same night we had in our tents two fathers with their wounded sons, and a nice old German mother with her boy. She had come in from Wisconsin and brought with her a patch work bed quilt for her son, thinking he might have lost his blanket, and there he laid all covered up in his quilt, looking so home like, and feeling so, too, no doubt, with his good old mother close at his side. She seemed bright and happy, had three sons in the army—one had been killed, this one wounded, yet she was so pleased with the tents, and the care she saw taken there with the soldiers, that while taking her tea from a barrel head at table, she said, "If I were a man, should be a soldier, too, right off."

Late one afternoon—too late for the cars—a train of ambulances arrived at our Lodge with one hundred rebels to be cared for through the night. Only one among them seemed too weak and faint to take anything. He was badly hurt and failing. I went to him after his wound was dressed, and found him lying on his blanket stretched over the straw—a fair haired, blue eyed young lieutenant, a face innocent enough for one of our own New England boys. I could not think of him as a rebel; he was too near heaven for that. He wanted nothing, had not been willing to eat for days, his comrades said, but I coaxed him to try a little milk gruel, made nicely with lemon and brandy, and one of the satisfactions of our three weeks is the remembrance of the empty cup I took away afterward, and his perfect enjoyment of that supper. "It was so good, the best thing he had had since he was wounded," and he thanked me so much, and talked about his "good supper" for hours.

Poor creature, he had no care, and it was a surprise to find himself thought of. In a pleased childlike way he talked about it till midnight, the attendant told me, as long as he spoke of anything, for at midnight the change came, and from that time he only thought of the old days before he was a soldier, when he sung hymns in his father's church. He sang them now, again in a clear, sweet voice: "Lord have mercy upon me," and then longer without words—a sort of low intoning. His father was a Lutheran clergyman in South Carolina, one of the rebels told us in the morning, when we went into the tent to find him sliding out of our care.

All day long we watched him, sometimes fighting his battles over, often singing his Lutheran chants, till in at the tent door, close to which he lay, looked a rebel soldier just arrived with other prisoners. He started when he saw the Lieutenant, and quickly kneeling down by him, called "Henry, Henry." But Henry was looking at some one a great way off and could not hear him. "Do you know this soldier?" we said. "Oh, yes, ma'am, and his brother is wounded and a prisoner, too, in the cars now." Two or three men started after him, found him and half carried him from the cars to our tent. Henry did not know him though, and he threw himself down by his side on the straw, and for the rest of the day lay in a sort of apathy, without speaking except to assure himself that he could stay with his brother, without the risk of being separated from his fellow prisoners.

And there the brothers lay, and there we strangers sat listening to the strong, clear voice singing "Lord have mercy upon me." The Lord had mercy, and at sunset I put my hand upon the lieutenant's heart to find it still. All night the brother lay close against the coffin, and in the morning went away with his comrades, leaving us to bury Henry, having 'confidence,' but first thanking us for what we had done, and giving all that he had to show his gratitude, the palmetto ornament from his brother's cap and a button from his coat. Dr W—— read the burial service that morning at the grave, and —— wrote his name on the little head board: "—— Lieut Rauch, 14th Regt South Carolina Vol."

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.—The Richmond Whig confesses in so many words "that the South will be overrun, seems now not impossible." It adds, "Our way is exceedingly dark at this time." It should be "dark" and hard, for it is "the way of transgressors." "Grant's goal," it adds, "is Atlanta. He will be there before Christmas, and all the cotton remaining in the Confederacy will be in his hands or destroyed, unless a truly great general and a great army are placed athwart his path in three weeks." But alas for the poor Whig! The rebels have no "great army," left in that quarter, and their "great generals," Bragg, Johnston and Hardee, have already been whipped by the "Yankees" again and again. The language of the Whig is the language of despair, so thinly disguised that it cannot be mistaken.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—The Providence Journal forcibly remarks that:

"No army has done harder fighting or better marching, none has displayed greater daring and endurance than the Army of the Potomac. But none has had such obstacles to encounter, and therefore none has so often been forced to taste the bitter cup of disappointment, and none has had its patience and persistence so fully tested. That it retains its elasticity, hopefulness, and efficiency in spite of all its trials, is one of the highest proofs which could be given to the intelligence, patriotism and unconquerable courage of the soldiers."

NEGRO SOLDIERS IN TURKEY.—John P. Brown, Secretary of the American Legation at Constantinople, writes as follows, in a private letter, respecting the employment of black soldiers in Turkey:

There are plenty of black officers and soldiers, who do as well as white; but there is no prejudice here against color, as in the United States. Slavery is not hereditary, and a freedman is on a footing legally with the white man. There are no civil disabilities against him, and he is left to seek whatever fortune God gives him, like any other human being.

MINING IN BIBLE TIMES.—Sir Richard Murchison, lecturing lately before the Royal Society, showed that gold was usually found upon the earth's surface, and in patches; and thus while gold washers realized fortunes, gold miners were often ruined. This fact, he said, was known thousands of years ago. For example, Job says (xxviii 1), "surely there is a vein for the silver," and (xxviii 6), "the earth hath dust of gold."

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN
By the Oregon Line.

Dates to January 27th.

Jeff Davis' House Robbed and Fired.

REBEL DESERTERS FLOCKING IN.

Another Raid by Forrest into Tennessee.

LEE'S ARMY REINFORCING LONGSTREET.

HEADQUARTERS DEP'T WEST VIRGINIA, Jan 26.—Gen. Sullivan has just informed Gen. Kelly from Harper's Ferry that his scouts have just returned with Richmond papers of the 22d, which contain the following: Jeff Davis' house was robbed and fired. The fire was discovered in time to save the building.

Major Quintan of the 1st New York cavalry, who commanded the scouts, reports that bands of men are forming to resist the rebel conscription in the neighborhood of Woodstock. The scouts took nine prisoners.

Gen. Early is reported to be at Harrisburg, and Rossers with three mounted regiments. White's battalion lies between New Market and Lambertsville. Fitz Hugh Lee has gone to Gordonsville with his command.

Col. Mulligan, who has just returned from Petersburg, West Virginia, reports no enemy in force in the South Branch valley.

NEW YORK, January 26.—A Washington special dispatch to the Times says: Prominent Germans from the West have arrived here who report that the Germans have resolved to put in the field for the Presidency a candidate irrevokably committed to the destruction of slavery.

The House Committee will report a bill to-morrow establishing substantially the Post-office money order system of England.

Gen. McClernand has been ordered to report to Gen. Banks. Special dispatch to the Tribune says a continual stream of deserters are pouring into our lines from the rebels. Three came in to-day.

The Herald's Army of Potomac dispatches say Gen. Meade is ill at Philadelphia, but is recovering and will soon resume command.

It is said that the firing heard on Saturday last, the 23d, across the Rapidan, was caused by the attempt of one or two rebels to desert. None of our forces were in that vicinity.

An explosion occurred at 65 Maiden Lane, occupied as a pistol cartridge manufactory. The upper part of the building was totally destroyed. Loss $75,000. One man was killed and one wounded.

NASHVILLE, January 26th.—Gen. Rosseau lately received information that a brigade of rebel cavalry, under Forrest, with a battery, was about to cross the Tennessee river at Florence for the purpose of a raid through Middle Tennessee. He made preparations to intrench himself and strengthen the post.

This evening, Col. Mizner, at Columbia, telegraphed that the enemy had taken Athens, and were about to move on Columbia. This morning pickets at Columbia were attacked by rebels coming from the direction of Mount Pleasant. It is thought that Forrest is moving around Columbia, and will endeavor to destroy Nashville and Western railroads, obstruct navigation, etc.

CINCINNATI, Jan 27th.—Dispatches from Bridgeport, Ala., say rebel desertions are unusually large.

Last vote for Senator in Kentucky Legislature, stood Guthrie 51, Bell 42. Buckner was withdrawn.

NEW YORK, Jan 27.—A dispatch to the Post says it is thought now that Garrit Davis will be censured if not expelled from the Senate.

The Committee on Ways and Means have agreed to recommend an appropriation of $100,000 to defray the expenses of calling out troops in several of the Border States.

MONTREAL, Jan 27.—James B. Clay, son of Henry Clay, died in this city last night.

LEAVENWORTH, Jan 28th.—The difficulty between Samuel Hallett and Gen. Fremont, will have a tendency to delay work on the Pacific Railroad.

NEW YORK, Jan 27th.—Washington dispatches say it is now certain that a serious mutiny has occurred in a rebel camp near Stephensburg. A deserter says a regiment attempted to leave, and a serious affray occurred.

LOUISVILLE, Jan 27.—The Nashville Union says deserters continue to come in. Yesterday several well informed parties arrived, two of them East Tennessee refugees. They state that every train from North western Virginia comes loaded with troops from Lee's army, and that these legions are immediately added to the forces under Longstreet. It is believed that Lee himself, feeling the absolute necessity for the re-occupation of East Tennessee, will leave his old command, and take charge of a campaign in the region of Knoxville. He and Jeff Davis argue that if Tennessee be not repossessed Richmond must be abandoned. If, in reinforcing Longstreet's army, the campaign of the Confederacy be lost it may be regained, provided the assault on Grant be successful, and there is a chance that Meade may remain inactive, with but a small force confronting Hill. In that event Knoxville may be retaken and Richmond be saved.

FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 27.—The Petersburg Express says Seven hospitals were burned at Camp Wilderness near Richmond. Large quantities of stores and clothing were destroyed.

Charleston correspondence of Jan. 19th says the bombardment of the city continues. The damage done is very small, considering the weight and size of the shells.

ORANGE COURT HOUSE, Jan 18.—The enemy (Federals) have moved to Robertson's river, advancing two miles.

NEW YORK, Jan 27th.—Gold 157½.

THE JAPANESE.—"A Traveler," in a letter to the London Times, says:

"I can assure you, if we go to war with the Japanese, we must not blind ourselves with the belief we shall have a second Chinese affair. They are bold, courageous, proud, and eager after every kind of knowledge. A friend of mine gave a workman a Bramah lock to put on a box; it was not discovered until some time afterward, and only then by the absence of the name, that the lock had been imitated, and as the workman confessed, the original kept as a pattern. I have been on board a steamer (paddle) which used three years ago to run between Nagasaki and Jeddo, six hundred miles, whose engines and boilers, and every part of her machinery, were made of copper. She was built by a doctor in Jeddo, whose only guide was a Dutch description of a steam engine translated into Japanese. An American gunnery officer was sent over in 1859, in the Powhatan, to teach them gunnery. He was courteously received, and then taken over the arsenal at Jeddo. He returned to ship, saying he had been taught a lesson instead of having to teach.

In many of the arts and manufactures they excel us. Their beautiful castings in bronze would puzzle the most experienced European workmen. I have shown specimens to clever workmen who have confessed they could not imitate them. Though they do not know how to blow glass, I have seen samples which would rival in brilliancy any made in England. The French Minister had a large ball so clear and of such perfect color that he believed it to be a gigantic sapphire, and bought it for a good round sum. Their paper imitations of leather are perfect; their paper waterproof coats are bought by the captains of ships for their exposed boats' crews; their own cloaks are good, and they have imitated our watches; they walk about with 'podometers' attached to their belts, and they are not backward in copper plate engraving and perspective. Their china is far superior to the Chinese. The country abounds with coal, though they only use that found close to the surface, but even that is sort of bituminous shale, is good. In gold and silver I believe they could rival Mexico and Australia; iron, copper and tin are in profusion. A friend of mine at Yokohama gave a Japanese a piece of English cotton shirting; in a few days the man brought back two pieces, and my friend had much difficulty in saying which was his, so closely had it been imitated. In fact, they are a people who want for nothing but teachers."

The Newburyport Herald tells some truths in a late sensible article on marriage—hear:

"We believe much in preaching. Meeting houses are not useless, nor sermons words thrown away, but there is no preaching more needed than an exposition of divine economy, where Christ told them to pick up the fragments that nothing be lost, and all the preachers in the land could not do so much for the happiness and virtue of the people as an equal number of ladies, who would persist in wearing out their old clothes, in defiance of the Paris fashions."

PSYCHOLOGICAL.—Sam, said an interesting young mother to her youngest hopeful, do you know what the difference is between the body and soul? The soul, my child, is what you love with; the body carries you about. This is your body (touching the little fellow's shoulders and arms), but there is something deeper in; you can feel it now. What is that? "Oh! I know," said Sam, with a flash of intelligence in his eyes, "that's my flannel shirt."—New Bedford Mercury.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Tax Payers of the City of Portland, that the Delinquent Assessment Roll of the City of Portland for the general and special taxes, together with the additional five per cent added thereto for the fiscal year 1863 and '64 has been placed in my hands for collection, with instructions from the Common Council of said city, to proceed forthwith and enforce the payment of said taxes in gold or silver coin, by seizing and selling the personal property, goods and chattels of persons remaining delinquent upon said roll.

I will be at the Council Chamber, No 93 Front street, (up stairs,) during business hours of each day, for the purpose of receiving and receipting for said taxes, and all persons that are delinquent upon said Roll are notified that they will save costs by calling at once and paying said tax, etc. The Collector will not call upon any person again only for the purpose of levying on property to make said taxes.

THE MANDAMUS CASE.—L. R. Martin and H. W. Davis, yesterday filed petitions in the Circuit Court before Judge Shattuck, praying that a writ of mandamus might be issued requiring the City Collector to appear and show cause why an order should not be granted requiring him, in the first case, to take gold and silver coin without the five per cent. penalty, for city taxes, and in the second case why he should not take "greenbacks" in full payment for both taxes and penalty. The arguments were made yesterday at four o'clock, Lansing Stout for plaintiff's and E. W. McGraw for defendants, and were submitted to the Court for its decision, which will probably be made to-morrow. Attorneys for other complainants will possibly be heard before the decision, as it is a matter of very great importance to all concerned.

ENJOYING THE WEATHER.—We yesterday observed several parties, of both ladies and gentlemen, who were availing themselves of the delightful weather, and enjoying a walk up Front street, or Washington street, viewing the beauties of the scenery and appearing as cheerful as though we had a Central Park or Boston Common to promenade in. Many of us who have friends in the East do sometimes envy them their pleasant scenes of winter, while we are hemmed up by drizzling rains, but at such times as this what is Minne-ha-ha, or even a trip up the Hudson, to compare with our own Columbia or the majestic Cascades.

LOFTY TUMBLING.—On Monday, while Mr. William Braden was at work on the roof of a tenement now going up on Second street, he lost his footing and started for terra firma about as fast as any one could gravitate from a roof with 45° pitch. Before passing the eaves he succeeded in using his feet sufficiently to enable him to give his fall some of the characteristics of a jump, and thus cleared the scaffold, and landed on his feet, striding and breaking in his fall the top of a thrifty apple tree, and escaped with merely a slight scratch or two, and a jar which did not prevent his being at work the next day.

SOLD.—It has become quite common of late for a crowd to rush down to Vaughn's wharf, when the Oregon City boat blows her whistle, and last evening was by no means an exception. Business took a number there, besides the usual horde of runners, boys and idlers; but they were all sold, as the Senator dropped down one block and landed at the Pioneer wharf. The crowd followed down, however, bound to carry out their object, and some who wished to "speak with the Purser" were carried to Couch's wharf and landed with the freight.

WILLAMETTE THEATRE.—The Theatre was not as crowded as usual last evening, but the fact is the less singular when it is observed that a number of parties and meetings were held in various parts of the city, attracting a great many who otherwise would have been out. The character of the Star Company, was, nevertheless sustained, and Mrs. Hayne and Miss Goodrich may expect their friends again this evening.

EXPORT OF MACHINERY.—The Jane A. Falkinburg yesterday received on board several heavy boxes of steamboat machinery, which has been sold by the O. S. N. Co. to Pope & Talbot of San Francisco. It will probably be re-shipped at San Francisco, in one of the Puget Mill Co.'s vessels for their mills on the Sound, for service in a boat now constructing there for towing logs, etc.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The following cases are set for trial before Recorder McCoy to-day: State of Oregon vs. T. B. Bisley and wife, application to keep the peace. City of Portland vs Wolfe & Ellis, Rosenbaum & Kolberg and Isaac Levy, charged with obstructing the streets. A case of assault, with intent to commit rape, and a few other cases.

THE Wilson G. Hunt left two hours behind time again yesterday morning, in consequence of the thick fog. Seventy-five passengers, 64 horses, and 40 tons of freight, constituted her load for the Cascades. Returning, she had nothing to report. Forty-five tons of freight and forty-two head of horses were booked for the trip this morning.

THE Senator arrived at her usual time yesterday afternoon, bringing the United States Overland Mails, forty passengers, and thirty tons of freight. The steamer Onward due at Canemah on Wednesday, from Corvallis, did not arrive until yesterday morning, having run aground on her passage below Salem.

THE FOG.—We have often heard of thick fogs, but that of yesterday morning in this city beats us. It is reported that the watchman had to take a candle along to see where the lamps were, when he extinguished the lights on the streets.

SEALS.—Quite a family of the species of Seal that mostly inhabit the Pacific coast were seen moving down the Willamette yesterday. As they can only breathe free air they floated along with their heads above water; resembling so many dogs.

ADJOURNED.—The County Court closed its session yesterday at 2 o'clock, and will stand adjourned until to-morrow at 10 A. M. The business before this court has been very limited, and there is not much more to be done.

INFORMAL SESSION.—The County Commissioners had an informal meeting at the Clerk's office yesterday, to consider a few points connected with the plans of the new Court House.

STOCK.—There has been a demand for horses and mules in this market, lately, and we yesterday saw a number of good looking horses coming in from the country for sale.

FIREMEN'S ELECTION.—The following Companies elected their officers as reported, last evening:

Willamette No. 1.—Foreman, W. H. Wood; 1st Assistant, A. R. Dufrene; 2d Assistant, H. Sleep; Secretary, I. Stitzel; Treasurer, S. M. Smith; Delegates, H. Failing, Wm. McMillen, A. G. Walling.

Protection No. 4.—Foreman, R. Hendrie; 1st Assistant, H. Ballough; 2d Assistant, J. Byrnes; President, A. Rosenheimer; Secretary, W. T. Paterson; Delegates, R. Hendrie, J. Wilson, Wm. Dalton.

Vigilance Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1.—Foreman, E. W. McGraw; 1st Assistant, Wm. Beher; 2d Assistant, E. Zeitfuchs; President, C. R. Martin; Secretary, Wm. Lair Hill; Treasurer, L. Cahn; Delegates, H. C. Coulson, M. M'Connor, Wm. Lair Hill.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH ALBANY.—We received the following dispatch last evening from the citizens of Albany. The line is now complete and in working order that far, which speaks well for the Superintendent:

ALBANY, Feb 4—7 P. M.

To THE PORTLAND PRESS: Albany enjoys telegraphic communication. She sends greeting by lightning to her sister city Portland.

CITIZENS ALBANY.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—The Fruit they raise on the Sound is all right, Frank,—but as to "them other things," we think we should have heard more of it—if it was so.

GOOD.—Those who visited Oregon City on the Fair Play, will be pleased to learn that that party netted $2 25 to the Sanitary fund —receipt of which is acknowledged.

The Library.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I am very glad that the plan proposed for putting the Library into the hands of Trustees appointed for life, has fallen through. It was mischievous, unprecedented, and destructive of the design of such an organization. What I want is an Association conducted by live men, who will represent the wishes of the proprietors, and who will make the Library a progressive institution. This is to be secured by annual elections only. Vitality is likely to be infused, and the Directors will strive to make their services acceptable, so as to secure approval. The other course would end in a "moth and rust" affair, which in five years would be of no account, and be only worthy of a tombstone.

Feet.

Of all your witching charms, my love,
I cannot think of one so sweet,
Of none so perfect though above,
Nor half so dainty as your feet.

Have I not held them in my hand,
And kissed them like a kneeling slave,
And learned their very music and
Their echoes on the marble pave!

Oh how help loving them the best!—
For have they not, love's eager feet,
Brought you, my darling, to my breast,
And made my wanting life complete!

My heart has leaped to see them near,
Like sunrise leading in the light—
And sunk to have them disappear
And leave me wildered in the night.

My love, such pagan-worship, I
Dare not your face divine to meet,
But am content, with downcast eye,
Only to idolize your feet!

I would the shoes I gave were gold
To be as precious as your feet!
Would they were little clouds to hold
Dainties than clouds more light than fleet!

Yet these will mind you morn and night
Of one who loves you night and day;
To me they'll bring you every flight,
But from me turn you not away.

Then wear them, darling, for my sake,
And keep them when they serve no more;
For in their depths my heart they take,
And I have kissed them o'er and o'er.

So that your feet will always tread
Upon the roses of a heart of love,
While kisses like the morning shed
Their cooling dews your steps above.

Hans Enlists for a Soldier.—"Brick," of a La Crosse, Wisconsin, paper, is an inhuman joker and lately witnessed a scene in Milwaukee which is worth transferring to our columns:

The reader must picture a stout, big bellied, short haired recruiting officer, with a blue cap, broad stiff frontispiece—a short sword—blue uniform, size too small, and a raw customer from "faderland," with wooden shoes and a long tailed grey coat. The officer was after recruits for a German regiment, and thus went for his susceptible countrymen:

"Lo! dere, Hans! be dat you?"

"Yaw."

"Come mit me to be a sojer man."

"Nein!"

"Yaw! come. It be so nice."

"Nein! I gets shoot!"

"Nix! Py tam it is better as goot. It be fon all de vile. You enlist mit me, you gets ein hundred dollars bountieh!"

"So?"

"Yaw! And you gets such nice clothe ash never vos? Shust looks mit me!"

"So?"

"Yaw. And in ter morning ven der trum peets, dat is de gurnel's compliment to come and git some schnapps mit him."

"So?"

"Yaw! And purty soon bime by de trum peets again, and dat ish de gurnel's compliments to come ent some sourkrout un sausage mit him by tam!"

"So, Mynheer?"

"Yaw, dat ish so! Den purty soon, bime by der trum peets, and dat ish de gurnel's compliments to ride mit him in her carringe to see your vrow or your Katrina. And den you rides all over de city mit him and it no costs you one tam cent! And bime by der trum peets and dat ish der gurnel's compliments to come and schmoke a bipe mit him! And den, bime by, purty soon, right away, der trums peets like der tayfel and dat ish der gurnel's compliments to come and git ein hundred dollars bountish, I tinks, but I guess not, by tam!"

"Yaw! So goot?"

"Yaw! And den der gurnel and der Bresident shake hands mit you, and you eat krout mit der Bresident's vrow and shust live like one fighting rooster, py tam! And den, in a little vile you say der Bresident be one nice man, and you gets another hundred dollars bountish, and der President makes one grand general mit you purty soon I guess not! You go mit me?"

"Yaw!"

"Gail Hamilton," thus describes a woman on a rainy day: "See how she is forced to concentrate all the energies of mind and body on herself and her casings. One delicate hand clings desperately to the unwieldly umbrella; the other is ceaselessly struggling to keep firm hold of the multitudinous draperies; and if book, basket or bundle claim a share of her attention, her case is pitiable indeed. Down goes one fold upon the wet flag-stone, detected only by an ominous flapping against the ankles when the garment has become saturated—a loosened hold of the umbrella, of which it takes advantage, and immediately sways imminent over the gutter—a convulsive and random clutch at the petticoats. The umbrella righted, a sudden gust of wind threatened to bear it away, and one hand not being sufficient to detain it, the other involuntary comes to the rescue—sweep goes the draperies down to the pavement, then another clutch, another adjustment—forward! march! and so on to the dreary, draggled end. Stalk—stalk—stalk—comes up the man behind her. Stalk—stalk—he has passed. Stalk—stalk—stalk—he is out of sight before she has passed a single block."

A Short Discourse on Matrimony.—What a crusty old fellow he must have been who wrote the following:

"Look at the great mass of marriages that take place over the whole world; what poor contemptible affairs they are! a few soft looks, a walk, a dance, a squeeze of the hand, a popping of the question, a purchasing of a certain number of yards of white satin, a ring, a minister, a ride or two in a hired carriage, a night in a country inn, and the whole matter is over. For five or six weeks two sheepish looking persons are seen dangling at each other's arms, looking at water-falls, or guzzling wine and cakes; then every thing falls into the most monotonous routine; the wife sits on one side of the hearth, the husband on the other, and little quarrels, little pleasures, little cares and little children gradually gather round them. This is what ninety-nine out of one hundred find to be the delights of matrimony!"

John Phœnix Outdone.—A paragraph has been going the rounds of the press in which an account is given of a horse having a new hoof grown on by the use of a certain farrier's ointment. Now, this reminds us of an incident that happened in Lyons, Wisconsin. A Mormon priest named Nichols professed a power of doing miraculous things, and compounding wonderful medicines. He made a nerve and bone all-healing salve, and thought he would experiment a little with it. He first cut off his dog's tail and applied some of the salve to the stump. A new tail grew out immediately. He then applied some to the piece of tail which he had cut off, and a new dog grew out. He didn't know which dog was which. This may seem a tough story, but we have Nichols' word for it, and we don't think he would lie.

Youthful Feminine Precocity.—"Sally Jones, have you done that sum yet?" "No, thir, I can't do it." "Can't do it! why, at your age I could do any sum that was set me. Sally, I advise you to avoid that word 'can't;' there is no sum can't be done, I tell you." "I think, this, that I know a thum that you can't thifer out." "Ha! well, well, Sally, let's hear it." "It is thith, thir: If one apple cause thin to the whole human raith, how many of them will it take to make a barrel of thider?" "Miss Sally Jones, you may turn to your parsing lesson."

Extraordinary Scene in Church.—An extraordinary scene occurred at the Park street Methodist church in Cincinnati on Sunday last. While the pastor was opening the services with prayer the congregation were startled by a series of vociferous, and for the time, most unseemly exclamations from a female, accompanied by the sound of blows and of a scuffle. Rising to their feet the congregation discovered that a "personal difficulty" of the most unusual character was in progress right among them. The Commercial thus reports the affair:

It seems that for some time there has been active hostilities in the Church between Mack R. Barnitz, a book publisher on Fourth Street, and Mrs. Nellie Jacobs, both members of the church. Some months ago Barnitz preferred serious charges against Mrs. Jacobs, and there was a good deal of trouble in the church about it. Barnitz was superintendent of the Sabbath school, and used his influence to have Mrs. Jacobs driven from her position as a teacher of one of the classes. It is said that Barnitz made the issue, if she was not expelled from the school he would resign the superintendency, and she was, therefore, voted out.

She preferred charges against Mr. Barnitz of conduct unbecoming a Christian gentleman, but was unable to press them to a trial. The difficulty between the two was a source of annoyance to the church members generally, and they did not want anything more to say or do about it.

But there is no calculating the strategy of an infuriated woman, and so no one dreamed of the possibility of such a scene as came to pass yesterday.

During the first prayer Mr. Barnitz, who leads the singing in the church, and has a prominent pew, which he occupies with his family, was kneeling and bowed in devotion. Mrs. Jacobs glided along the aisle, and drawing a cowskin which she had concealed in her skirts, gave him a vehement whack directly over the head, and followed it up hot and heavy, giving him a really tremendous larruping about the ears, before those in the vicinity could collect their scattered senses enough to interfere.

She accompanied the blows with hysterical cries of "O, you villain!" "There, you traducer!" "Slander a woman, will you!" &c. Dr. Hitchcock paused in the prayer, overwhelmed with amazement. Several leading members of the church made haste to quell the dreadful outbreak, when Mrs. Jacobs drew a handful of cayenne pepper and plunged it in Barnitz's face, and then dashed it right and left, almost suffocating two or three elderly gentlemen who had interfered.

She was at length removed from the church and the services proceeded. As Mrs. Jacobs was put out at the door she said, "I am not satisfied." She has been for several years a member of the church and alleges that she has been slandered and persecuted by Barnitz and has been unable to obtain justice. Mr. Barnitz took the extraordinary application that befell him pretty coolly, and attended church in the afternoon. It is not probable that Mrs. Jacobs will frequent that church much hereafter.

Mrs. Sarah Smith's Reverie.—"All dissimulation is disloyalty to love." I've thought so before, said Mrs. Smith, but now I know it, because I read it in a newspaper! These editors beat the D—uch for understanding human nature, (all except female nature) there they are decidedly benighted. However, it isn't my interest to throw any light on that subject; it is an interesting study that I shan't interfere with. But this is a digression. As I was saying, "dissimulation is disloyalty to love." Didn't Mr. Smith tell me, when he asked me, on his knees, to make him the happiest of men, that I was the only daughter of Eve he ever fancied; and didn't I, before the honeymoon was over, find in his old bachelor trunk locks of hair of every color the sun ever shone upon? And doesn't it do me good to put my matrimonial foot on the cricket that I stuffed with them? Certainly—I only wish I had their entire scalps!

Well—didn't he come home one Sunday, with a face as long as an orthodox steeple, and give me "the text and heads of the discourse," when he had been off rolling ninepins all the morning? And didn't I always know, when he kissed me, or gave me a $20 bill, (which was much more acceptable!) that it was a premonitory symptom of a desperate flirtation with somebody? And wasn't I sure, when that buff vest and blue coat with bright brass buttons, went on, that there was immense execution to be done somewhere on forbidden ground?

Well—"Life is short;" so is Mrs. Smith. No help for either, that I know of! I'm too busy, amusing myself, to attend to his little delinquencies. If there's anything that I ignore it is curiosity. It is so decidedly a masculine failing that I scorn to be guilty of it.

Fanny Fern.

Wonderfully Wise.—A coroner famed for his much talk and little wit, was once called to hold an inquest on some unfortunate, whose soul, "by the visitations of Providence," had left the body behind to undergo in its turn, a visitation of humbug. The jury being assembled, he delivered a learned charge on the duty they were to perform. He prefaced it by a bold division of the subject: "Gentlemen of the jury—In this here inquest, three pints is to be considered—how did this corp come to its death? Was it, first, by accident; or, secondly, by incident; or, thirdly, by the hands of the incendiary?"

Everybody knows Billy Burton of the Weddell House. The other day a fellow who was round asking for work, complained bitterly, because he could get nothing to do for a living. "Nothing to do for a living," said Burton, "why, man, do as I do, drink for a living!"

A western paper has the following amusing Pharisedism: "A young man, a member of an Evangelical church, wants board in a pious family, where his Christian example would be considered a compensation!"

To The Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENtion of the public to the fact, that on the first of May, 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of Income for the year 1863, and as the year 1863 is just ended, it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor.

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs, etc., from the amount received from the same property of which such expenditure have been made. For instance—a person receives $500 for rents, he can deduct that amount all that is necessary to repair such property from which rents were derived; the same rule applies to steam-boats, sawmills, and other like property; but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds, Mortgages, and from dividends, must be returned as Income, although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings, steamboats, etc.

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from whence derived, amount expended, and for what purpose, then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor, a correct return can be made.

HELMBOLD'S
Genuine Preparation.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATE
Compound Fluid
EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL
AND DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,
IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

THE CONSTITUTION,
once affected by Organic Weakness,
Requires the Aid of Medicine, to strengthen and invigorate the system, which
HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
invariably do.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

FEMALES! FEMALES! FEMALES!!
OLD OR YOUNG,
Single, Married or contemplating Marriage

IN MANY AFFECTIONS PECULIAR TO FEMALES, the Extract of Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous state of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE!

[See symptoms above.]

No Family should be without it.

TAKE NO MORE BALSAM, MERCURY, OR UNPLEASANT MEDICINE FOR UNPLEASANT AND DANGEROUS DISEASES.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,
AND
HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH
CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages; At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet; No Inconvenience,
AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS
Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU
IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.

Certificates of Cures

From Eight to Twenty Years standing, with names known to science and fame.

"PHYSICIANS," PLEASE NOTICE."

We make no "secret" of its "Ingredients." HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is composed of Buchu, Cubebs, Juniper Berries, selected with great care by a competent Druggist; Prepared in vacuo, by H. T. HELMBOLD, Practical and Analytical Chemist, and Sole Manufacturer of Helmbold's Genuine Preparations.

AFFIDAVIT.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints.

EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, In SPRINGFIELD, MISS.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, Ia., writes, 3d Jan.: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bron

WEST MANCHESTER, PA.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L. PARKS

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE Co., Iowa, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.
